SATURDAY, Sept. 5, has been chosen by Miss Helen French for her marriage to Ellis Wilson. Announcement of the engagement and approaching wedding was made Saturday evening when Miss French entertained at bridge at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. French, 1201 East Center street.

The wedding will take place at the home of Miss French's parents and the ceremony will be read by her uncle, Rev. J. E. Harrison of Mulberry, Ind. Mr. Wilson is the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shaner of 504 East Church street.

The party was arranged as a radio broadcast with interesting bits of news broadcast throughout the evening. At the close of the bridge session a "news flash" account of the approaching wedding and the date of the ceremony. Miniature microphones marked the places arranged for a lunch and the bridge appointments were in keeping with the party theme. Blue and white flowers held in a white bowl centered the table and carried on the color note Miss French has chosen for her wedding. Awards at bridge were won by Miss Marie Miller and Miss Ruth Pad dock.

Miss French's guests included Miss Miller, Miss Pad dock, Miss Milford Wright of Mansfield, Miss Wilma Jacobs of Toledo, Mrs. Carl McDaniel, Mrs. Alfred Holloman, Mrs. Helen Huebner, Miss John Dowler, Miss Jeanette Evans, Veda Walsh and Mary Margaret Peters.

Miss French attended Wittenberg college and was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university in 1934. Her sororities are Pi Kappa Sigma, honorary education sorority, and Phi Mu. For one and one-half years Miss French was employed as a case worker at the county relief administration headquarters.

Mr. Wilson was graduated from Ohio State university in 1933 and is employed in the engineering department of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. He is affiliated with Eta Kappa Mu and Tau Beta Pi fraternities.

MISS MARY S. KULL and Miss Eva Baringer entertained at dinner last evening at the home of Miss Kull at 181 West Center street for the pleasure of Miss Rose Marie Baker, a bride of next week. Covers were laid for nine. Miss Baker will become the bride of Nicholas Broadveld of Kalamazoo, Mich., in a ceremony to be read in Calvary Evangelical church.

WHAT WOMEN DON'T TELL
It is not enough for a wife to wear a rose-colored negligee to breakfast. In the cold, gray light of morning, every woman should wear rose-colored glasses—and a Maxim silhouette.

A woman always imagines that a man who loves her can read her like a book, whereas, if he admires the blinding, he is always willing to take the "type" on faith.

A woman hasn't complete faith in the endurance of her husband's love until she carefully lets him see her with her hair in waves and her face colored with a clay pack.

Never judge a man's love by his pleasure in being near you—but by his inability to stay away from you.

One reason why men are so careful never to say anything sentimentally binding to a girl, is probably because they know that the feminine mind is like a penny-bank, one you drop anything into it, you can't get it out without smashing something.

Next to failing to laugh at the point of a man's joke, the greatest crime a woman can commit is to laugh before he reaches it.

Every day is just "another day" to a man; but a woman usually spends today worrying about how she will suffer tomorrow for the mistakes she made yesterday.

Almost any woman can manage to bury her real troubles and force a smile; her greatest difficulty is to keep her imaginary troubles from burying her.

There are more ways of surprising a man than by marrying him—but none surer.

200 AT CLARIDON CHURCH CEREMONY

One Hundred and Sixteenth Anniversary is Observed.

Two hundred persons attended the ceremonies marking the one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the Claridon M. E. church yesterday at Claridon. Seventy-five people were served at a basket dinner at noon in the township house which was the second M. E. church built in Claridon. The township house was erected in 1855 and was the congregation's meeting place for 30 years.

Rev. H. B. Allen of Lakeside, retired Methodist minister and a former pastor of the church, preached the morning service at the church. Rev. Rush of Mt. Gilead spoke at a program which followed the picnic dinner. Rev. McFarland of Haystack and Rev. Huffman of Edison, both former pastors at Claridon, were present and spoke briefly during the afternoon program.

The history of the church dates back to 1820 when a small group of pioneers met at the Jacob Aye home to hear a sermon by a circuit rider of the Scioto district of the M. E. church.

Firemen in the chief's car were called to a vacant lot near 390 Merkle avenue to extinguish a grass fire at 3 p. m. Sunday. The blaze was thought to have been caused by children playing with matches. Firemen left at 3:30 p. m. Sunday a minor fire caused by a flooded gasoline stove occurred at the residence of T. N. Caldwell of 858 Unepcher avenue. BY ADELE GARRISON

Mrs. Cosgrove Decides To Go Along to Bank while Mudge Makes Withdrawal

"I do know," I murmured, assenting to Mrs. Cosgrove's dictum that "these are dangerous days." And then I spoke of remembering Dicky's more strident warning, when in answer to his query, "How much does this damned thing total?" I had told him the sum that Robert Savarin had entrusted to me in order to safeguard the future of Lillian and Marion.

"Good Lord! don't you realize the danger you run?" he had ejaculated. "If anybody knew that you have the right to draw against that money, you'd be the victim of a picturesque little snafu."

I had answered him with the true statement that nobody did know, that I never had gone near the bank where the legacy was deposited, nor had I drawn a penny of it.

Mudge Is Worried
But now things were different. I meant to draw out a sum which to some minds would be sufficient excuse for what Dicky called a "snafu." I suddenly found myself seized with sudden terror at the idea of going away from the bank with so great a sum in my possession. Yet in my ignorance of banking procedure when large sums were involved, I did not know how else to transfer the money to Samuel Brixton.

A check I did not want for many reasons, chiefly because I was sure Dicky would object violently to having my name signed to a check made out to Samuel Brixton. There was but one thing for me to do, I decided, and that was to ask the advice of this bank official, Mr. Winslow, whom Mrs. Cosgrove had praised so highly, and about whose presence at the bank she was now inquiring.

She was back in the room in another minute, her face wearing the benignant expression of one who is the bearer of pleasant news. "Mr. Winslow goes out to lunch on at twelve," she said, "and is back at one. If you get there by one, that will give you two hours before the bank closes, although I'm sure you won't need but a few minutes. And we'll have time for a good long talk. You won't need to start for Kingston until noon or a little after. It's less than an hour's run, traveling the way you generally do."

"We Ought to Start"
But her news was anything but pleasant to me, and I too, hastily consulted the clock on the mantle. "We ought to start at once," I said. "In order to catch him before he goes to lunch. You see we have to go back to the farm tonight, and we probably shall have to stop in New York City first."

The last words seemed to utter themselves without any volition of mine. I had suddenly remembered my charge to Samuel Brixton to go to his office on this day and wait.

four I give you the plans of the most delightful kitchen I have seen for a long time. I am going to fit it to you, how we are able to make a perfect apple pie that did justice to the kitchen." We can only correct our faults if they are pointed out to us. The same holds true of cookery faults. The crust of the pie was a little thin. First because too much water had been added in the making. I only sufficient water to hold the flour and shortening together when pressed firmly with the hand. The pastry was overworked which tended to develop the gluten in the flour and make the pastry tough. Possibly the chief criticism (and suggestion that was so graciously received) was the use of a "poor" rather than blending the shortening and flour with two knives. I have found that the only satisfactory method of cutting in shortening is through the use of a pastry blender. Two spoons or two knives. Recently, I learned the secret of a tender yet also a flaky pastry. Cut in half the shortening very fine cut in the other half coarse and behold the finest pastry of the age.

WAYS FOR USING UP
SURPLUS EGG YOLKS

Four Excellent Recipes That Have Been Tested Are Offered by Mrs. Thurn

When much cooking is being done there always seems to be a surplus of egg yolks. Egg yolks being mostly fat will enrich any sauce or custard dessert. Here are four recipes that have been tested and found delicious.

Silkens Gold Cake
One half cup shortening, one half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup sugar, three fourths cup milk, one and one fourth cup sugar, six egg yolks, two and three fourths cup flour, two and one half teaspoons baking powder.

Combine shortening, salt and vanilla. Add one cup sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Dissolve three-fourths cup sugar in milk. Beat egg yolks until very thick and light in color. Add to creamed mixture and beat thoroughly. Sift flour and baking powder together three times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture alternately with milk and sugar mixture, beating after each addition until smooth. Pour batter into two 9 inch layer pans greased with a shortening and flour mixture. Bake in a moderate oven at 300 degrees F. for 25 to 30 minutes. Spread with the following icing.

Silkens Gold Icing
Two tablespoons shortening, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon grated orange rind, one fourth teaspoon salt, two cups sifted confectioners sugar, one egg yolk, two tablespoons orange juice, one teaspoon lemon juice.

either side one for serving and the other for glazing and draining. Below is a space which some day may house a dish washer. Today however it is storage space for pots and pans, cleaning materials and a divided cupboard for dry vegetables.

Planning desk. The picture on this page shows the corner that is indeed a woman's own. An extension telephone, a radio and a vase of flowers. Here at this desk the meals for the week may be planned, the budget figured and recipes filed systematically in the file of the desk drawer. While cakes are baking the homemaker can compile the home records that makes living more pleasant for all.

Walls and Floors
The walls of the room are of a soft toned green tile. I was told that they wash beautifully and thus will save money in the years to come. The floor is covered with black and white linoleum in large squares. The curtains are of the new rubberized silk in a delicate peach.

Item of Interest
The kitchen is truly an ideal workshop and modern to the last detail. Few women think that such a bit of perfection might be theirs on a modest budget. This woman who has won for herself a place of prominence explained to me that such a kitchen was possible for her "only because I wanted it and put twenty five cents a day in a kitchen bank these last few years. In that statement lies in genuity and help for all of us."

CHAPTER NINE
Dennis told
BEN TYLER said I don't know how good this dance will be. It's what the six editors will call in the nature of a fare well to the college contingent. The contingent will over in the place completely and considering that I used to run around with some of their mother, it don't make me feel any younger.

Carol shrugged. I'm used to it. Don't worry about me. They were to stop by Alice and Tom Harrison's. He said Mos of the crowd would be there. The Harrison house was brilliant with lights and crowd. Alice put down her glass and rushed at Carol with outstretched arms.

Carol darling! I'm so glad to see you! I've been meaning to call you all week but little Alice has been well and I've been swamped with work.

She kissed Carol deftly avoiding the question of the things she had been swamped with and Carol kissed her in return. Tom came up and said. Well well well. Welcome to our fair city. He radiated hospitality. He'd grown taller too.

When she had a greeting by her acquaintances and introduced to the strangers, he'd said her to wait and he'd said she'd stood in the dining room.

Good Lord, you overwhelm me! I'll take a small quick one I think and be water.

An unattached man drifted in and was greeted with shouts of welcome. Carol looked at him in surprise.

He didn't look like Ashboro. He looked more like Hollywood. Most of the men wore white linen suits, but the new man wore a linen me jacket and he was almost gaily handsome. The rest were thought who would have his picture taken with his shirt open at the throat.

Tom wanted he said to present Dennis. Carol acknowledged the introduction with a casual nod and went on talking to Ben. Dennis looked up and stared at her. He said she was no reason to bother Ben looked startled and went on talking but about this time he'd made.

They had one more round and then went. They assaulted the club house with noisy gaiety. They were a social union in themselves and if the college crowd thought them antique and the older people he had to get the news across before somebody else did. The music expired with a death rattle. He walked into a couple backed away and apologized and the girl smiled a brilliant invitation.

He looked after the girl. She was a kid who lived next door to him. She couldn't be more than sixteen or seventeen. An accident, Dennis thought indifferently looking for a place to happen. Well, let it.

All eyes were on an older version of the girl. She said "I was wondering where you were dancing. Let's have a drink."

He agreed and thought casually what a beautiful girl Alice was. Tom's whole business had made money and she couldn't take it. All Alice knew was what she saw in the movies.

They went downstairs to the grill and began making a lot of noise. Tom and Carol Turance came in. All Dennis looked quickly away from them.

He meant it when he told her he was scared. She was the sort he could go crazy about even as a spring water with a sense of humor and a nasty gift for him. One eyebrow was higher than the other for nothing and her mouth was a little crooked - probably from smiling on the other side of it. They could have a swell time laughing at the show together.

He looked back at her and their eyes caught. He made a way face at her but the room and the noise were outside the moment and they were alone in it.

Alice and finally against his shoulder. "Do I hear music?" If you want to call it that. Finish your drink in a hurry then I got rhythm.

He waited half an hour before he broke on Carol again but he spent the half hour looking against a door frame watching her. He liked the way she danced without giving her body away as if she were keeping herself physically as well as spiritually inviolate. Her glance brushed him now and then but after the first casual smile their eyes were abey and speculative and he knew his own fear had found its counterpart in her.

She guessed of course why he wasn't dancing with her. When a man stands against the wall for half an hour and then cuts in on you she realizes it's because he's fighting something he can't resist or because the moment's too big to match at. He's playing with it. Like a cat with a mouse before he eats it.

He went deliberately across the floor and touched her partner's shoulder. With the width of the room between them and without a spoken word they had fought it.

Tom nodded slightly. You said it.

Dennis turned quickly away from Carol and Tom. He'd look up Alice and check that off temporarily. He felt sure all over as if he had played an unaccustomed game of squash. Damn the girl anyway for not seeing how he felt. If she was as intelligent as she looked she ought to have guessed that his attitude about the job was bragg.

BING CROSBY FILM AT PALACE THEATER IS TUNEFUL SHOW

One of the most tuneful and now, amusing of the Bing Crosby starring vehicles, "Rhythm on the Range" opened a four-day run at the Palace theater Saturday.

The pictures provides a balanced program of song comedy and romance surpassing the popular crooners previous efforts. This is due in a large measure to the able assistance given Crosby by Bob Burns fast rising radio comic with the Arkansas drawl. Martha Raye new comedienne, Frances Farmer, Samuel S. Hinds, Lucille Gleason, Warren Hymer and George E. Stone.

"Rhythm on the Range" is noteworthy in that it launches six new tunes of the hit class many of them already popular. Included are "I Can't Escape From You," "The House That Jack Built For Jill," "If You Can't Sing It You'll Have to Swing It," "Roundup Lullaby," "Rhythm on the Range" and a new cowboy waltz, "Empty Saddles."

They haven't got the coyotes singing hi-do-ho but in almost every other way the old west has gone swing in this new Paramount tune show. Mule in the piece valets everywhere from the melodies of the famous Bob Burns baroque to the "hot stuff" by Louis Prima's famed swing band from New York's "Famous Door Club."

An added feature to the Palace bill is "Charlie Chase's newest comedy," "Neighborhood House," grand burlesque on American current event movie house bank nights. Awarded shots of the Spanish revolt rushed here yesterday will be on view at all shows tonight.

MEERY PAIR OF APRONS MADE FROM SINGLE BASHI PATTERN PATTERNS 4105

We've got a secret! Promise not to tell! These two charming and practical aprons are made from the same easy, Anne Adams pattern. Note style "A" - it's a dainty dainty or with its pet ruffle in matching contrasting - grand, wouldn't the lovely v-shaped yoke, "just right" when you are making tea? Choose gay gingham or tailored style "B" and contrast buttons which accent the novel style and cute "tab" yokes. And this apron perfect for boys in the kitchen when they are in the "thick of it."

Pattern 4105 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Small takes two yards 36 inch fabric. Each apron. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins (stamps coins preferred) for Anne Adams pattern. Write day, name, address and style.

Be Sure to State Size

Be sure to order your copy of our new Anne Adams Pattern Book! See how many lovely clothes you can make from the fun-pictured in our simple models that are even easier to make. Pretty house dresses, frocks, blouses, fetching frocks, blouses. The latest slenderizing.
